

Overview

Rely on a team with more than 18 years of experience handling service contracts with Pemex. We can assist you in the bid stage, including structuring consortia, negotiating joint bidding agreements, addressing qualification issues under bidding guidelines or RFPs, and assessing contract risks. We can also assist you in the implementation stage, including contract signing and delivery of guarantees, project execution issues, addressing payment delays, service disruptions, force majeure cases, and disputes.

Take advantage of our extensive experience in Mexico's natural gas sector handling scores of matters on behalf of project developers and project financing lenders. We address all issues and challenges, including the new framework for acquiring rights of way, environmental impact concerns and social impact assessments.

If your business is international, our vast global reach gives you access to lawyers who understand not only the law but also the culture and tradition of the place where the deal is done or the dispute breaks out. Especially in the energy sector, business is global, and cultural nuance plays a role in how contracts are drawn and disputes are resolved.
